

Local Real Estate and Home Inspection Experts Challenge Traditional Thinking About Winter Home Sales

Montclair real estate and inspection experts reveal why winter sellers may have advantages over spring listings, with insights on maximizing cold-weather sales

MONTCLAIR, NJ, UNITED STATES, January 9, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In a timely collaboration, real estate professional Holly Martins and Smart Choice Inspections' Leo Betancor have published an in-depth guide revealing why waiting until spring to sell your home could be a costly mistake. Their comprehensive article, "Winter Home Selling: Why Waiting For Spring Could Cost You," is now available on Patch.com, offering crucial insights for homeowners considering a winter sale.

Helpful tips to make selling your home this winter a success.

"In my years of experience selling homes in every season, I've seen winter sellers consistently benefit from less competition and more serious buyers," says Holly Martins. "When a buyer schedules a showing in freezing temperatures, you know they're motivated. These aren't casual browsers – they're ready to make decisions."
