By type, the allied healthcare staffing segment accounted for more than one-fourth of the global healthcare staffing market revenue in 2021, and is expected to rule the roost by 2031. This is attributed to the fact that allied healthcare professionals operate in healthcare facilities primarily to maintain the operation of the healthcare system by providing technical, diagnostic, therapeutic, and support services. The locum tenens staffing segment, simultaneously, would showcase the fastest CAGR of 9.3% during the forecast period.

By end-user, the hospitals segment garnered the major share in 2021, generating more than one-third of the global healthcare staffing market revenue. This is due to the rise in the use of healthcare staffing for providing healthcare-related services such as patient care in hospitals. The clients segment, on the other hand, would portray the fastest CAGR of 10.2% throughout the forecast period.

By region, North America contributed to the highest share in 2021, garnering more than half of the global healthcare staffing market revenue, and is expected to rule the roost throughout the forecast period. Surge in the geriatric population, improved healthcare infrastructure, and effective government legislation across the region drive the market growth. Asia-Pacific, at the same time, would display the fastest CAGR of 11.7% from 2022 to 2031. Increase in demand for healthcare staff in the province fuels the growth of the market.
