“This recognition is a testament to floLIVE's commitment to driving innovation and providing unmatched flexibility for private network solutions,” said Rony Cohen, floLIVE co-founder and head of business development. “Our unique infrastructure empowers businesses to deploy scalable, high-performance private networks, ensuring they stay ahead in today's fast-evolving connectivity landscape.”

floLIVE's Private Network Connectivity solutions deliver seamless support for 4G LTE and 5G private networking across a global footprint. Leveraging local Points of Presence (PoPs), the company ensures low latency and high performance while providing fully customizable solutions that align with diverse business requirements. The company's owned and operated infrastructure gives customers and partners unparalleled control of their networks, enabling innovative use cases tailored to specific business needs.

“floLIVE’s platform has a strong feature set that enables a wide range of private network use cases to support enterprise connectivity,” said James Moar, principal analyst at Kaleido Intelligence. “The cloud-native core is highly flexible and incorporates public-private roaming solutions that can leverage floLIVE’s extensive IMSI library and other connectivity features. This solution is ready to operate in a wide variety of contexts depending on client needs. This adaptability and entirely in-house-developed software solution is why we are pleased to rank floLIVE Champion for its private network software offering.”

Kaleido Intelligence’s 2024 Private Network Vendor Hub report provides a detailed assessment of the private network ecosystem, offering invaluable insights into vendor strengths and market positioning. It conducted a rigorous evaluation focused on product capabilities, industry presence, and innovation. It reviewed over 80 private network offerings from 48 vendors, concluding that floLIVE earned a rating of exceptional excellence and is worthy of Champion Vendor status.
