Innovative Design to Address Common Golf Challenges

PopTopT was developed by golfer Steve Nelson to address recurring issues with traditional tees, such as breakage and inconsistent shot performance. The tee's two-piece design is engineered to separate upon impact, reducing friction and minimizing spin for cleaner, more consistent drives. Independent testing conducted by Golf Test USA reported an average of seven additional yards in drive distance and a 15% improvement in accuracy.

“Golfers are constantly seeking ways to improve their game, but the potential of the tee has often been overlooked,” said Nelson. “PopTopT was designed to provide a simple yet effective way to optimize performance.”

PopTopT has gained attention from both industry experts and professional golfers. Golf Test USA's Seal of Excellence validates its performance benefits, while endorsements from players like Chan Kim highlight its practical application.

"Tees are often overlooked, but they're a big part of the game. PopTopTs are frictionless," said Kim.

PGA Compliance and Accessibility

PopTopT tees are PGA-compliant and available in both magnetic and non-magnetic designs, making them suitable for golfers of all skill levels. The product's design reflects a broader effort to innovate even the smallest elements of golf equipment to achieve meaningful improvements on the course.
