maritime and offshore consulting, proudly announces the appointment of Roberto Herrera as Global Offshore Director. With an extensive background in offshore and maritime operations, Herrera brings decades of expertise to SolarisTech as the U.S. offshore drilling sector enters an exciting period of growth.

A graduate of the United States Merchant Marine Academy, Herrera has served in pivotal roles, including as Deputy Commissioner overseeing global offshore operations. His career spans high-profile positions in offshore regulatory compliance, non-destructive testing (NDT), and project management across some of the most complex drilling units in the world, from drillships and jack-up rigs to FPSOs and semi-submersibles. Herrera's leadership and technical proficiency will advance SolarisTech's strategic goals, particularly in supporting offshore operators as they navigate regulatory complexities and adopt cutting-edge safety and efficiency practices.

As SolarisTech expands its offshore division, the company remains committed to providing comprehensive solutions that address the unique challenges of the maritime and offshore industries. Key services include:

- Non-Destructive Testing (NDT): Advanced testing and inspection of critical piping and structural systems to ensure safety and reliability.
- Regulatory Compliance Consulting: Expertise in navigating U.S. Bureau of Safety and Environmental Enforcement (BSEE) standards and international conventions such as SOLAS, MLC, and ISPS.
- Risk Management and Mitigation: Tailored assessments and corrective action plans to reduce operational risks.
- Offshore Asset Support: Comprehensive pre-inspection and post-detention reviews for rigs, platforms, and vessels.

- Training and Crew Support: Customized programs to enhance crew performance, safety, and regulatory knowledge.

Leading Amid the U.S. Offshore Drilling Boom

With demand for offshore resources rising, SolarisTech is poised to help operators harness opportunities while maintaining the highest standards of safety and compliance. Herrera's leadership will play a critical role in delivering these solutions and positioning the company as a trusted partner in the industry.

"The U.S. offshore sector is entering a transformative era, and SolarisTech is ready to lead with innovation and expertise," said Herrera. "Joining SolarisTech allows me to contribute to a company that's setting the gold standard for offshore operations and compliance."

"Roberto Herrera's appointment marks a new chapter for SolarisTech," said Thomas Blenk, President and CEO. "His depth of experience in offshore operations, regulatory frameworks, and global project management will enhance our ability to deliver exceptional value to our clients. Roberto embodies the forward-thinking leadership we need to navigate the challenges and opportunities of the offshore industry."
