

Next Day Access North Suburban Chicago: New Territory

Next Day Access, a leading provider of accessibility solutions, is pleased to announce an Illinois expansion by adding Next Day Access North Suburban Chicago.

LAKE BLUFF, IL, UNITED STATES, January 21, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Next Day Access, a leading provider of mobility and accessibility solutions, is pleased to announce their Illinois expansion by adding Next Day Access North Suburban Chicago. The franchise is owned and operated by Steve and Jennifer Nolan.

After extensive research and engaging with various franchise businesses, Steve Nolan made a leap of faith and left the corporate world. "I wanted to focus on providing a consultative service, not selling a product," Steve says. With his parents aging in place, he and Jennifer were getting first-hand experience in learning how to make homes more accessible and safe. This, in turn, led them to learn more about Next Day Access.

"The level of professionalism and best practices helped me feel more confident about choosing Next Day Access," says Jennifer. The Nolans resonated with the mission of Next Day Access: providing individuals with freedom and peace of mind in their homes with mobility solutions.

Understanding the needs of their community and being able to help those in need are massive driving factors for the Nolans. "This is personal for me," remarks Steve, a lifelong Chicagoland native. Recognizing that most people don't know about the accessibility market until they're in it, the Nolans are eager to connect with their neighbors about accessibility and mobility solutions. They are deeply passionate about ensuring that seniors and disabled individuals have access to the solutions they need to not only safely, but comfortably live in their homes. "These challenging circumstances fuel our strong sense of purpose," says Steve, "and we feel honored to serve the Chicagoland community we love so much with integrity and empathy."
