

Naqi Logix Wins 2025 TWICE Picks Award at CES

Leading Neurotech Company Recognized for Game-Changing, Non-Invasive Neural Earbud

VANCOUVER, BC, CANADA, January 22, 2025

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Naqi Logix, a leading neurotech company redefining human-device interaction, is thrilled to announce that its flagship product, the Naqi Neural Earbud, won this year's TWICE CES Picks Awards 2025 presented by TWICE, Residential Systems and TechRadar Pro. The brands' annual program honors the best and most influential consumer technology at CES 2025. This prestigious accolade underscores Naqi Logix's dedication to bringing revolutionary, non-invasive technology to the forefront of innovation and accessibility.

A Game-Changing Recognition. The Picks Awards distinguish and honor brands that are leading the way with innovative products and creative solutions. Judged by a panel of industry experts, winning a Picks Award provides recognition for the best new products on display at CES.

"The Picks Awards recognize outstanding products across consumer technology, the custom installation industry, and innovative new technology that can truly help businesses of all sizes across various industries. Our team was highly impressed by the excellence and scope of this year's entrants. All the winners should be proud of their achievements—a well-deserved congratulations from the entire awards team." – Picks Awards Editorial Team.
