FMCG packaging often needs to be cost-effective, convenient, visually appealing, and environmentally friendly. It consists of diverse kinds of packaging such as bottles, cans, pouches, bins, and wrappers, designed to fulfill the unique needs and choices of consumers while making sure the integrity of the product for the duration of its lifecycle.

Driving Demands:

Commonly found forms of FMCG packaging are bags and pouches, bottles and jars, paper and paperboard bins, aerosol cans, tubes, and others. Among those types, the bottles and jars segment held the biggest FMCG Packaging Market share in terms of revenue in 2023.

Alternatively, paper and paperboard packing boxes segment is expected to dominate the FMCG packaging market forecast.

Furthermore, in 2023, the food and beverages segment dominated the global market due to the consistent demand for essential food and beverage products worldwide. Additionally, as consumer preferences continue to shift towards healthier and more convenient food options, the food and beverages segment is expected to maintain its prominent position in the market.

Moreover, the pet care segment is projected to experience significant growth with a significant CAGR. This growth can be attributed to increasing pet ownership, growing awareness of pet health and well-being, and the rising demand for premium pet care products. As pet owners increasingly prioritize the health and happiness of their pets, the demand for high-quality pet care products is expected to rise steadily over the forecast period.
