An insightful observation is that the escalated incidence of hemophilia is a powerful propeller for the Jivi market growth. Hemophilia is linked with genetic mutations in the X-linked genes tasked with the production of clotting factors. The result?

Either inadequate or defective clotting factors VIII hemophilia A or IX hemophilia B render the blood incapable of clotting efficiently. The silver lining is that Jivi swoops in to save the day by replacing the deficient Factor VIII with a long-acting recombinant therapy, facilitating blood clotting to control or prevent bleeding episodes. You ask about the bonus? The therapy's extended half-life slims down the dosing frequency, enhancing patient adherence and convenience.

To put this in context, in November 2022, as per data from the United Kingdom Hemophilia Centre Doctor's Organization, new Hemophilia A registrations in the UK escalated from 16 in 2021 to 19 in 2022. Simply put, the rising propensity of hemophilia is indeed fueling the Jivi market upsurge.
