Our partnership with Impelsys creates an expanded digital tooling ecosystem that allows users to create high-quality content rapidly while engaging audiences across digital channels.”

Denis Haman, CEO, Glide Publishing Platform

The partnership leverages both companies' core strengths to provide a unified platform that will empower businesses to meet their evolving technology demands. Impelsys will utilize Glide's advanced CMS to improve user experiences (UX) across digital platforms and build user experience solutions. Glide will benefit from Impelsys' expertise in delivering customized consumer applications that seamlessly integrate with modern CMS solutions.

Uday Majithia, Vice President of Solutions and Delivery at Impelsys, said, "Impelsys sees this partnership as a natural extension of our offerings in the media industry. As clients demand CMS solutions that support enhanced user experiences, partnering with Glide allows us to deliver integrated, transformative solutions that drive growth."

“Our partnership with Impelsys creates an expanded digital tooling ecosystem that allows users to create high-quality content rapidly while engaging audiences across digital channels, and brings our combined technical expertise to the publishing and media clients we both serve,” said Glide CEO, Denis Haman.

The collaboration also provides robust integration options, including support for Single Sign-On (SSO), e-commerce functionalities, and advanced analytics. Further, the partnership will enable customers to leverage comprehensive digital marketing strategies, including SEO best practices, content marketing through blogs, and targeted digital campaigns to drive growth and visibility.
