Leading packaging manufacturer Midvale Paper Box has introduced two new shipping product lines, marking a significant expansion beyond their traditional packaging offerings.

The company, known nationwide for their letterhead boxes and business card packaging solutions, has launched professional-grade self-seal mailers and clear shipping pouches, responding to evolving market demands for comprehensive packaging solutions.

Our customers increasingly asked for shipping solutions that matched the quality of our custom boxes. These new products complement our core business while meeting that demand.”

This strategic expansion comes at a time when businesses are increasingly seeking integrated packaging solutions from single suppliers. The addition of shipping materials to Midvale's existing product line directly addresses growing market demands for comprehensive packaging options, particularly in the rapidly expanding e-commerce and digital business sectors.

Midvale's expansion leverages their advanced manufacturing infrastructure, which includes high-speed web-feed production lines running at 500 feet per minute. This technology, uncommon in the packaging industry, allows the company to maintain competitive pricing while delivering premium products nationwide. The web-feed production process, unlike traditional sheet-feed methods, enables continuous, high-efficiency manufacturing that significantly reduces production time and costs.

"Our customers increasingly asked for shipping solutions that matched the quality of our custom boxes," notes David Frank, Midvale Paper Box spokesperson. "These new products complement our core business of letterhead boxes and business card packaging while meeting that demand.

The integration of these new shipping solutions into our existing product line represents our commitment to providing comprehensive packaging solutions for businesses of all sizes."

The company's strategically located manufacturing facilities across the United States support nationwide next-day delivery of these new product lines. This expansion maintains Midvale's commitment to rapid fulfillment, a service that has earned them recognition for maintaining 100% on-time delivery rates. Through their established network of warehouses and distribution centers, Midvale ensures consistent product availability and rapid response to customer needs.

The new self-seal mailers, available in 9x11.5 inches, feature a semi-glossy finish and strong adhesive system designed specifically for document security and protection. These mailers incorporate an innovative tear-strip design that simplifies opening while maintaining document integrity during transit. The semi-glossy surface accommodates both direct handwriting and printed labels, offering flexibility for various business needs. Particularly suited for shipping sensitive documents, artwork, photographs, and business materials, these mailers provide professional-grade protection with user-friendly functionality.

The clear shipping pouches, manufactured with premium 2-mil thickness material, incorporate a specialized design for document protection and visibility. These pouches feature an advanced adhesive system that bonds instantly with various surfaces, including cardboard, plastic, and metal containers. The crystal-clear material ensures easy content verification while protecting against moisture and handling damage. These pouches are particularly valuable for shipping labels, packing lists, and other essential business documents that require both protection and visibility.

Both new product lines integrate seamlessly with Midvale's existing range of letterhead boxes, business card packaging, and custom packaging solutions. This integration allows businesses to maintain consistency across their packaging needs while benefiting from the efficiency of working with a single supplier. The company's comprehensive quality control processes ensure that these new products meet the same high standards that have defined Midvale's traditional packaging solutions.

Midvale's manufacturing excellence extends beyond mere production capabilities. Their integrated approach includes partnerships with carefully selected suppliers for materials, inks, and logistics, ensuring consistent quality and competitive pricing across all product lines. This vertical integration strategy, combined with their efficient web-feed production process, enables the company to maintain strict quality control while offering competitive pricing.

This development follows Midvale's recent investments in advanced printing technology and represents their largest product line expansion in recent years. The company's commitment to innovation is reflected in their continuous improvement of manufacturing processes and regular evaluation of supplier partnerships to maintain optimal efficiency and product quality.

The launch of these new shipping solutions positions Midvale Paper Box to better serve the evolving needs of businesses nationwide. As companies increasingly seek efficient, cost-effective, and environmentally conscious packaging solutions, Midvale's expanded product line offers a comprehensive answer to these market demands. The company continues to serve businesses nationwide with their comprehensive packaging solutions, maintaining their reputation for quality, reliability, and customer satisfaction.
