In “Mary’s Story”, Nancy Rhodes reveals a deeply spiritual and personal account of Mary, Mother of Jesus. A journey of faith and the brave spirit of Mary shown through the visions of the author.

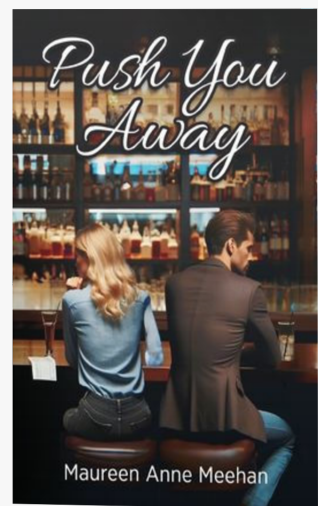

This narrative was inspired by Rhodes' powerful experience in Ephesus, Turkey, where she felt compelled to document Mary’s life through a series of intimate revelations. Mary’s life, marked by hardship and devotion, unfolds in her own words, offering a profound perspective on loneliness, faith, and the healing power of love. Rhodes conveys Mary’s vulnerability, from her troubled childhood to the trials she faced as the mother of Jesus. The story speaks to those dealing with their own struggles, providing comfort through Mary’s timeless wisdom and compassion.

Rhodes is an accomplished stage director and educator with a rich international career, and this book represents a different, deeply spiritual facet of her work. She has staged over one hundred American musicals by many composers and writers such as her.

Maureen Anne Meehan’s “60 Dates in 6 Months” recounts her personal experiment in dating at the age of 58. This surrounds a personal experience on what fun life can offer, even at this age.

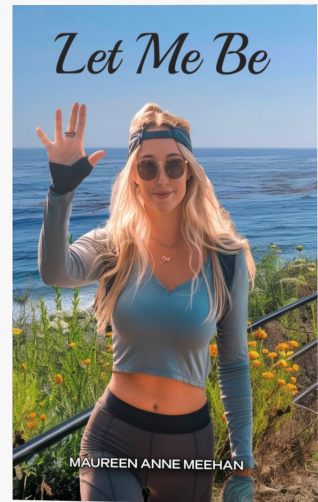

60 Dates in Six Months (with a Broken Neck)

Push You Away

The book is a humorous and candid exploration of her experiences with modern dating, weaving in moments of frustration, awkwardness, and unexpected joy. The narrative is infused with satire, as Meehan details the ups and downs of trying to find love in a fast-paced, often impersonal dating world. Through her story, Meehan highlights the complexity of modern relationships and the challenges of navigating this new landscape, particularly at an age when many might assume romance is no longer a priority.

Let Me Be

Meehan's varied career journey, including time as a judge and a writer, brings depth to her storytelling, making this memoir both entertaining and insightful. Her book is a humorous yet honest look at the quest for love in the digital age.

In "Push You Away", Maureen Anne Meehan continues her exploration of dating and relationships in her late 50s, following the events of "60 Dates in 6 Months".

The book delves deeper into the author's journey of dating while simultaneously managing a serious health issue—she broke her neck during her dating adventure. Despite the physical setback, Meehan decided to continue her dating journey, documenting it through humor and introspection. The result is a collection of stories that blend personal resilience with a candid look at the dating world, filled with hilarious anecdotes and hard-earned wisdom.

Meehan's background in law and her experiences as a judge add an insightful, intellectual layer to her narrative. The book provides a mixture of humor and serious reflection on the nature of relationships, making it an enjoyable and thought-provoking read.

The sequel to "60 Dates in 6 Months" and "Push You Away", Maureen Anne Meehan's "Let Me Be" shifts focus to the experiences of others as they navigate the challenges of online dating.

This nonfiction work presents various personal stories of people struggling with rejection and misrepresentation on dating platforms. Meehan addresses the difficulties that arise when profiles include outdated pictures or false portrayals of people's careers and aspirations, and the emotional toll it takes on individuals seeking genuine connections, thus proving that love can be complicated no matter what and when.

Meehan's candid and humorous writing offers a compassionate look at the modern dating world, underscoring the frustrations many experience in their search for love. Her signature wit and honest reflection continue to make this series of books both entertaining and insightful.

These five authors have given an introspection of what love can offer within the complexities of life, and maybe even loss. From the understanding of how love can possibly be similar to what can be seen in popular rom-coms, to the ever-enduring love of a mother known to all, and to how affection is still prominent even at a certain age.
