the work of renowned textile artists Jamele Wright Sr. and Sylvie Johnson, alongside collections from four rising designers: Rick Bailey, Henki Kawilarang, Latifah Qawishabazz-Muhammad, and Graig Williams.

Taking place on Monday, February 10, 2025, from 4:00 PM to 9:00 PM at the New York Design Center, this immersive experience will explore how textiles transcend traditional boundaries, taking on new forms within the world of fashion. From handwoven fabrics to avant-garde silhouettes, guests will witness a seamless blend of art and couture, showcasing the depth of creative innovation within the industry.

Empowering Emerging Designers Through Visibility and Opportunity

As a WBENC-certified fashion company, Pink Maison is committed to bridging the gap for underrepresented designers by providing access to mentorship, buyer procurement, scholarships, and exclusive industry events. The company is dedicated to nurturing raw talent and fostering long-term growth for fashion creatives.

“Fashion has always been more than just clothing—it’s a powerful form of self-expression, identity, and cultural storytelling,” said Rose Gordon, Founder of Pink Maison. “We created Pink Maison to be a space where creativity meets opportunity, ensuring that designers receive the resources, exposure, and industry connections they need to thrive.”

This commitment is rooted in resilience, faith, and a belief in limitless possibilities. As the founder states, "With God in her, she cannot be defeated." It is this unwavering dedication that fuels Pink Maison's mission to elevate and empower emerging designers on a global stage.

A Must-See Event at New York Fashion Week
For fashion lovers, industry insiders, and media, The Art of Textile Design and Fashion is set to be a defining moment at New York Fashion Week. This event offers attendees the opportunity to engage with groundbreaking design, discover fresh talent, and experience textiles in a way that redefines modern fashion.

With a lineup of visionary designers and textile artists, this showcase will be a celebration of craftsmanship, innovation, and cultural storytelling—a testament to the power of creativity in shaping the future of fashion.
