Troy A. Miller, President and CEO of the National Religious Broadcasters \(NRB\), a nonpartisan, international association of Christian communicators whose member organizations represent millions of listeners, viewers, and readers, discusses on national news outlets President Donald Trump's visit to the 2024 NRB Convention in February of last year.

"[President Trump] understands our Christian community," Miller said. "He clearly cares about religious freedom. He was up to date; he understood the issues. It was, in our opinion, his defining speech to set the policy and direction of his administration when it comes to both broadcasting and media as well as the Christian community."

In addition, Troy A. Miller issued a statement of support for legislation introduced by Sens. Ted Cruz (R-Texas) and Ed Markey (D-Mass.) that would maintain AM radio capabilities in the dashboard of all new U.S. vehicles.

"NRB welcomes the introduction of the AM Radio for Every Vehicle Act to the 119th Congress and champions the AM radio as a source of live, local, lifesaving emergency communications in times of disaster. Every day, our members broadcast messages of faith, family, and freedom on the AM band. AM radio uplifts, entertains, and informs listeners all over the country and supports live, local, lifesaving emergency communications in times of disaster."

A senior executive with more than 30 years of management and business experience, Troy A. Miller was elected as President & CEO of NRB in July 2022. He had served as the interim CEO of NRB since March 2019. Under Miller's leadership, the association has recaptured a strong financial position, grown its membership, and significantly enhanced programming, networking, sponsorship, and exhibition aspects of the annual NRB International Christian Media Convention. Miller is also currently President & CEO of NRBTv, where he has served since June 2005.
