What are the main drivers of growth for the Plegridy market?

The increasing prevalence of multiple sclerosis globally is anticipated to be the major growth driver of the Plegridy market. This chronic autoimmune disorder disrupts communication between the brain and the body resulting in various neurological symptoms, with Plegridy often deployed to reduce relapse rates and slow disease progression. As per a report by the Multiple Sclerosis Trust in May 2024, over 150,000 people in the UK have been diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, a number that is increasing by 7,100 each year. Further, multiple sclerosis cases have increased by up to 15% across regions, most often diagnosed in those in their 30s and 40s. Therefore, this rising prevalence drives the growth of the Plegridy market.
