GSIQ, a specialist in sports, sponsorship and tourism intelligence, will provide PSA with independent data-driven insights into the valuation of its worldwide commercial programme. This partnership will play a key role in advancing the sport's global appeal and positioning PSA's assets for long-term growth as squash strengthens its standing on the international stage.

Partnering with GSIQ will be instrumental in shaping the perception of squash as we continue to elevate its commercial standing. With LA28 on the horizon, now is the perfect time to take this step.”

Ian Davis, Head of Commercial Partnerships at PSA, said: “Partnering with GSIQ will be instrumental in shaping the perception of squash as we continue to elevate the sport's commercial standing. Their expertise in sponsorship valuation will provide us with the critical intelligence we need to enhance our global commercial programme and create compelling opportunities for our partners. With LA28 on the horizon, now is the perfect time to take this next step in our commercial evolution.”

Squash's inclusion in the LA28 Olympics is a landmark moment for the sport, providing a global stage for its elite athletes. To maximise this opportunity, PSA has partnered with GSIQ, whose insights will help optimise its commercial strategy, enhance visibility, attract new partners, and drive long-term growth.

As one of the fastest-growing entrants in the global research industry, GSIQ has rapidly established itself as a go-to partner for strategic sports insights.

Through this collaboration, GSIQ will assess the media and sponsorship impact of PSA's portfolio, delivering valuable intelligence that will inform future commercial strategies.

Joshua Marcus, Co-Founder of GSIQ, said: "We're absolutely delighted to be working with the PSA at what is a pivotal moment for the sport. To be able to support with the valuation of their current commercial programme in the build-up to LA28 and feed our strategic insight into wider commercial strategy is a really exciting prospect."

With over 1,500 registered players and more than 1,000 events worldwide each year, the PSA Squash Tour is the pinnacle of professional squash. As the sport continues to expand its global footprint, this partnership will provide PSA with a deeper understanding of its market value, helping to drive commercial growth and maximise sponsorship opportunities.
