Bachmann's ability to scale, transform, and sell businesses at record-breaking valuations is once again on full display with this transaction. With two major roofing company sales in under 2 years, LB Capital has cemented itself as the premier player in the roofing mergers and acquisitions (M&A) space.

"This partnership with Alloy Roofing is a game-changer," said Lance Bachmann, Founder of LB Capital. "We built Munz Roofing into a dominant force in the Philadelphia market, expanding its reach and solidifying its reputation for excellence. Now, under Alloy Roofing's national platform, it will grow even stronger while maintaining that reputation for greatness. This is exactly the type of high-value partnership we help business owners achieve."

LB Capital: The Leader in Roofing M&A

The sale of Munz Roofing follows a series of high-profile transactions led by Bachmann, further proving LB Capital's unmatched expertise in scaling and exiting home services businesses.

In less than three years, we've sold two major roofing companies for mid eight-figure sums. Our strategy works, and we're looking for more great roofing businesses to help grow and position."
