The super short film 'Mind Over Matter' highlights the unique rise to power of Napoleon Bonaparte, serving as a film pitch deck for the full-length film. The story begins with Napoleon's youth in Corsica, where he cultivates a deep understanding of war strategy and a strong desire to attend military school, even though his father is a mailman. Thanks to some connections through his father, Napoleon is admitted to a Military school in France where his ability does not go unnoticed. Napoleon meets the love of his life, Josephine, a woman schooled in the art of romance and conversation. Josephine serves as his main supporter on his rise to crowning himself Emperor of France.

Besides his remarkable military victories, Napoleon introduced concepts that changed the world, such as Equality for all before the law, protection of property, and freedom of religion. He stressed the importance of educating the youth, setting up secondary schools for well-rounded education for all, making great strides in infrastructure, and patronizing the Arts and Culture.
