

ESource To Demonstrate Fastest Corporate Education Chatbot

Explore the Future of AI in Corporate Education: Join ESource AI University's Event to See The Latest in AI Courseware Development and Prompt Optimization.

BUFORD, GA, UNITED STATES, February 7, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- ESource AI University is excited to announce an upcoming event that promises to redefine the landscape of artificial intelligence in corporate education. Scheduled for February 12, 2025, at 9:00 AM PST, Noon EST, this virtual gathering will offer a platform for learning & development professionals, subject matter experts, technologists, and industry leaders to explore the transformative power of AI in courseware development.

This event allows the opportunity to explore the possibilities that AI offers for transforming the educational landscape.”

Joe DiDonato

The event aims to provide attendees with cutting-edge insights into how AI can enhance educational outcomes, streamline administrative processes, and foster innovative teaching methods. Participants can engage with leading experts, discover the latest AI tools, and participate in interactive sessions designed to inspire and inform.

Event Highlights:

- Featured Speakers: Hear from Joe DiDonato, President of AI University and the creator of the #1 rated ESource L&D Expert Assistant and Prompt Optimizer, as well as over 100 other AI Agents, who will demonstrate the tools that beat out competitors like DeepSeek and ChatGPT when it comes to corporate education. Also, hear from Christina France and her experiences using these tools in consulting engagements, as well as the Co-Founder & Managing Partner for ESource Corp, who will talk about how these tools revolutionized ESource Corp’s staffing and consulting company.
- Demonstration: Watch as two courses are built, along with facilitator guides, student workbooks, and slide decks in minutes. Challenge the tools to create a course for a topic you are passionate about or have always wanted to build.

- User Perspectives: Hear how L&D professionals are using these tools in corporate and non-profit organizations to increase revenue per employee as well as enhance their own performance levels.

"At ESource AI University, we are committed to advancing the role of AI in corporate education," said Joe DiDonato, President of ESource AI University. "This event is a unique opportunity for educators, learning and development professionals, SMEs, and innovators to come together, share their perspectives, and explore AI's possibilities for transforming the educational landscape."
