community dedicated to advancing board effectiveness and corporate leadership.

Dr. Linda's action reflects her deep commitment to financial literacy, wealth-building, and inclusive leadership. With a track record of guiding working women toward financial security through stock investing, she hopes to share her expertise with Nasdaq's global network of board members and corporate leaders, driving governance best practices, strategic innovation, and leadership excellence. "Serving on a board is about more than just occupying a seat—it's about ensuring that every decision made creates long-term value for businesses, employees, and communities," said Dr. Linda.

I am honored to join the Nasdaq Center for Board Excellence, a platform where forward-thinking leaders collaborate to shape the future of corporate governance.”

Dr Linda's journey into board leadership began at the University of Waterloo Board of Governors in Canada, where she overcame imposter syndrome and internal doubts to secure her first board seat. In a recent reflection

on her experience, she provided invaluable insights for women striving to enter boardrooms, emphasizing the importance of self-belief, preparation, and active participation.

Her expertise as a seasoned investor in major global companies like Alphabet (Google) and Berkshire Hathaway, combined with her personal journey of overcoming financial instability due to motherhood-related income interruptions, has fueled her passion for women's leadership and wealth-building.

The Nasdaq Center for Board Excellence is a premier forum connecting visionary board members, executives, and governance leaders to advance corporate leadership through knowledge-sharing and collaboration. As a champion for integrity, transparency, and long-term value creation, the Center fosters discussions on corporate governance best practices, leadership effectiveness, and innovation-driven decision-making.

By joining this prestigious community, Dr. Linda brings her unique perspective on financial independence, investment literacy, and diversity in corporate leadership, reinforcing Nasdaq's mission to reimagine tomorrow's boardrooms with forward-thinking, diverse, and effective leaders.

Dr. Linda's journey is a testament to the power of perseverance and financial empowerment. Through Investornomy, she continues to equip women with the skills to build generational wealth through stock investments—a tool she believes is key to closing financial gaps and increasing representation in boardrooms worldwide.
