Our 2024 Impact Report demonstrates what's possible when our industry comes together, reflecting the strength of our community and the critical role AAHomecare plays in advancing HME priorities." Tom Ryan, AAHomecare President & CEO worked alongside its members to strengthen the HME community, protect patient access to care, and deliver results that directly impact providers and the people they serve.

AAHomecare's 2024 scorecard includes payer and policy wins that impact reimbursement and operations, new tools to navigate industry challenges, and fostering collaboration across the HME community. These outcomes directly impact the ability of businesses to thrive and millions of individuals to access home medical equipment and supplies.

"This is about real-world impact—not just for the HME industry, but for the end users and families who rely on home-based care every day," said Tom Ryan, President and CEO of AAHomecare. "Our 2024 Impact Report demonstrates what's possible when our industry comes together, reflecting the strength of our community and the critical role AAHomecare plays in advancing HME priorities. As we look ahead to 2025, we're focused on continuing to deliver meaningful results for the HME community."

Key takeaways from the report include:

• Advocacy Wins that Matter: From reimbursement relief to regulatory progress at the federal and state levels, these victories keep businesses operational and protect end user access to care.

• Member Resources that Deliver Results: Educational tools and council initiatives to help the HME community address emerging trends and operational challenges while strengthening their businesses.

• Building a Stronger Community: A collective effort from members and staff that amplifies the HME voice at every level.

"Compiling this report was an inspiring reminder of how much we can achieve together," remarks Ashley Plauché, Sr Director of Brand Marketing at AAHomecare. "Every accomplishment reflects the passion and dedication of our members and team to ensuring people receive the care they deserve at home. We're proud to celebrate these achievements and excited about the momentum we've built for the year ahead."
