

PDQ Releases 2025 State of System Administration Report

SALT LAKE CITY, UT, UNITED STATES, February 12, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- PDQ, an IT software company, released its annual report on IT industry trends, demographics, salaries, tools, and more. The 2025 State of Sysadmin report surveyed more than 1,000 IT professionals to gather insights into their current perspectives, concerns, and experiences.

- Manager salaries are up, with 53% earning more than $100,000 per year compared to just 33% last year.
- Reported stress levels have increased for sysadmins working in industrials and healthcare.
- As in years past, most sysadmins plan to stay at their jobs, with 76% intending to maintain their current position.
- Most sysadmins expect their budget and team sizes to stay the same or grow. However, those in education are more likely than their peers to anticipate shrinkage.
- Burnout and workload top the list of sysadmin career concerns.
