Growing Demand for Senior Home Care

The demand for affordable and safe in-home senior care is expected to surge in the coming decades as the baby boomer generation ages and requires caregiving support. The U.S. Census Bureau projects a 47% increase in Americans aged 65 and older, reaching 82 million by 2050. This demographic will represent 23% of the total population.

Perfect Care Match's exclusive, flexible models of care are customizable to meet the unique needs of clients and their families.

The U.S. home healthcare market size was estimated at USD 171.60 billion in 2023 and is predicted to be worth around USD 644.37 billion by 2034, at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 12.74% from 2024 to 2034, according to a report by Precedence Research. PCMatch specializes in caring for patients with Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia, addressing a crucial need in the aging population. The expanding senior care market additionally reflects a growing preference among older adults for aging in their homes rather than assisted living facilities or nursing homes.

Meeting a Critical Need

Studies show that seniors who receive care at home are often healthier and experience fewer hospitalizations than those in institutional settings. In addition to providing expert assistance with daily living activities, in-home caregivers ensure proper nourishment, physical activity, and social engagement. They additionally help seniors avoid and proactively prevent risks such as falls, injuries, and infections that can lead to severe health impacts.

With nearly 30 years of experience, PCMatch Founder and CEO, Leah Doroch, CDP, HP, CHT, CADDCT, is a board-certified Holistic Health Practitioner, certified Dementia Practitioner, certified Alzheimer's Disease Dementia Care Trainer, certified Stress Management Coach, Harvard Medical School certified Nutrition Coach, and Deepak Chopra-certified Instructor, specializing in Ayurveda. In addition to its exclusive home care service offerings, the company is also dedicated to being a resource for family and professional caregivers.
