Jay Dhaliwal and Mark Macdonald

His best-selling books and popular programs have transformed millions of lives, making him a trusted authority in the field of health.

Super Patch's Technology

Super Patch has been at the forefront of wearable wellness technology, creating products that improve physical and mental health through innovative designs. Their patches are designed to optimize body function, enhance performance, and support recovery, making them a valuable tool for anyone looking to improve their health.

The Super Patch Company was established in 2023 by founder and CEO Jay Dhaliwal. His journey into health and wellness innovation began in 1983 when his mother was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, motivating him to explore non-invasive treatment options.

Under Jay's leadership, The Super Patch Company has developed 13 different wearable patches that support the body's natural ability to manage pain, enhance athletic performance, improve sleep quality, and promote better balance and stability, as well as improve mood.

Jay's innovation of VTT has positioned The Super Patch Company as a leader in the wellness industry.

Goals of the Partnership

The collaboration aims to achieve several key goals:

- Educational Initiatives: Launch educational campaigns to raise awareness about the importance of amplifying your mind-body connection with Super Patch's technology and a healthy lifestyle to achieve optimal health.
- Media and Event Experiences: Implement global health events and media tours that educate about Super Patch's technology innovation, VTT, and the importance of an enhanced mind-body connection and neurological and physiological homeostasis.
- Community Expansion: Ensure that wellness solutions are accessible to a broad audience, promoting health and wellness for all through active support, educational online communities, and live training.
- Wellness Professional Partnerships: Collaborative partnerships with health facilities, medical offices, chiropractic offices, medispas, personal training studios, etc.

Statements from the Leaders

"We are thrilled to collaborate with Mark Macdonald, whose expertise and passion for health align perfectly with our mission at Super Patch," said Jay Dhaliwal, CEO of Super Patch. "This partnership significantly advances our efforts to deliver innovative and effective health and wellness solutions to a global audience."

Mark Macdonald added, "Partnering with Super Patch takes us one step closer to mine and Jay's overall mission to help the world live with great health. Super Patch is the best in the world at neurological homeostasis, and when combining their incredible technology with solid lifestyle choices, everything is possible with your health. It's also an incredible honor to be partnered with Jay. Jay Dhaliwal is a visionary who's fully committed to helping lead the change the health industry needs. So buckle up, the health technology revolution is here!"

Looking Ahead

As Super Patch and Mark Macdonald embark on this exciting collaboration, they invite everyone to join them on their mission to revolutionize health and wellness. More details about upcoming initiatives and product launches will be shared in the coming months.
