MEXICO, MO, UNITED STATES, February 13, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Prolific Exteriors, a trusted roofing and exterior remodeling company, is now accepting nominations for the 2025 Apple for a Teacher Project. This initiative, now in its fourth year, provides a free roof to an outstanding teacher in Mid-Missouri as a way to honor their dedication and impact on students.

In asking how to give back through the business, what better way than to help out our educators?”

“Our Apple for a Teacher Project was the brainchild of my wonderful husband and business partner, Jimmy. We have always enjoyed giving back to the community when we could. In asking how to give back through the business, what better way than to help out our educators? We have been blessed with this business, which allows us to be a blessing to a Mid-Missouri teacher each year. We look forward to continuing this tradition for years to come,” said Angie Clampitt, co-owner of Prolific Exteriors.

Nominations for the 2025 award will be accepted from January 1 through March 31, 2025. The winner will be announced in May during Teacher Appreciation Week. Community members are encouraged to nominate a deserving educator through the official nomination form on Prolific Exteriors' website.

Teachers must be full-time educators in public schools within Mid-Missouri. A selection committee, comprised of retired educators, will review nominations based on dedication to student success, innovation in teaching, community involvement, and financial need for a new roof.

Since its launch in 2022, the Apple for a Teacher Project has provided brand-new roofs to three deserving teachers, including Ashley Crow (Paris R-II) in 2024, Lori Kostopolus (Prairie Home RV School) in 2023, and Angela Muenks (Jefferson City High School) in 2022. Each winner has been recognized not only for their dedication to their students but also for their impact on the broader community.
