DUBAI, DUBAI, UNITED ARAB EMIRATES, February 14, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The gaming world has a new star to watch for: Draphz, the 16-year-old American sensation known for his electrifying gameplay in Rainbow Six Siege, has skyrocketed to 10,000 organic YouTube subscribers in just three weeks. With a fast, aggressive play style, jaw-dropping "one-tap" highlights, and the uncanny ability to take over an entire round in an instant, Draphz is redefining what it means to be a professional gamer.

Currently playing out of Dubai, UAE, Draphz — real name Dillon Martufi — has captured the attention of both casual fans and hardcore gaming enthusiasts. His meteoric rise in the YouTube community is a testament to his raw talent and relentless work ethic. "It's crazy to think how fast everything is happening," said Martufi in an exclusive interview. "But at the end of the day, I'm just doing what I love. I'm grateful for everyone who's been supporting me from day one."

When asked what advice he'd give to other young gamers hoping to make it big, Martufi shared: "I would tell them to believe in themselves, even if no one else does; that no matter what you do, there will always be people out there trying to spread negativity, trying to plant doubt — and those seeds of doubt will grow if you let them. It's always going to be you versus you, so bet on yourself, put in the work, and things will turn out."
