cannabinoids and botanicals, and available in specifically formulated ratios to promote a broad range of experiences from uplift and stress reduction to sound sleep, these next generation gummies have taken Washington by storm and are now poised to have a major impact on the New York market.

The high potency Wildside Max shots deliver 100 mg THC in every 1 oz bottle, made to be taken and consumed discreetly anywhere and for people on the go. And the Green Revolution Water Tinctures leverage nano technology for rapid onset of effects and can be combined with your favorite beverage for a range of satisfying effects, from stress relief to sleep to elevated good times.

Industry-Leading Edibles, Now in New York

- Doozies: Fast-acting, infused with minor cannabinoids and botanicals, these next-gen gummies offer targeted experiences—whether for focus, relaxation, or deep sleep.
- Wildside Max Shots: Delivering a potent 100mg THC in every 1oz bottle, these discreet, on-the-go shots are crafted for maximum effect.
- Water Tinctures: Utilizing cutting-edge nanoemulsion technology, these tinctures provide rapid onset effects and can be easily mixed into any beverage.

“We’re thrilled to introduce our proven edibles to the New York market,” said Leo Shlovsky, founder and CEO of Green Revolution. “Our innovative products are designed to align perfectly with the tastes and needs of New York consumers, offering something for everyone—from wellness seekers to cannabis connoisseurs. We anticipate a strong reception as we bring our award-winning formulations to this dynamic market.”
