CED's experienced team handles every step of the publishing process—from editing and story development to book cover design and custom illustrations—while keeping authors involved and informed, ensuring each book is beautifully crafted and ready for its readers.

We work closely with our authors and try to create what they imagine on a page while also keeping in mind what it is a child would delight in seeing.”

“The combination of a good story and a good illustration is a powerful thing for young readers,” said Kim Merritt, illustrator at CED. “We love doing artwork that can capture their attention while the message of the text is effectively working on their hearts. We work closely with our authors and try to create what they imagine on a page while also keeping in mind what it is a child would delight in seeing.”

CED's children's book services include:

- Story development and consultation
- Manuscript editing and proofreading
- Custom illustrations tailored to each story
- Professional book cover design and formatting
- Comprehensive marketing support, including promotion strategies and outreach

With CED, authors work with a dedicated project manager who personally guides them through each step, ensuring their Christian children's book is brought to life with care and attention, reaching young hearts and minds.

"I am beyond grateful for this company, and because of CED, this vision has now been brought to life," said Sam Rivers Jones, author of In His Image: Volume I: Mighty Like Him. "So many happy tears, and the first book is absolutely beautiful! This team is built on integrity and excellence, and I won't be using anyone else!"

CED also offers tailored marketing packages to help authors get their books into the hands of eager readers.
