What Drives The Growth In The Waste And Recycling Market?

One of the key growth drivers in the waste and recycling market is the increasing e-waste generation. E-waste generation refers to the production of discarded electronic devices and components resulting from replacing, upgrading, or disposing of electronic products. This increasing e-waste generation is largely attributed to the rapid progress of technology, resulting in more frequent upgrades and dispositions of electronic devices. Waste and recycling systems mitigate the effects of escalating e-waste generation by facilitating proper disposal, recycling, and recovery of valuable materials from discarded electronics. For instance, in March 2024, the United Nations Institute for Training and Research UNITAR, confirmed that global e-waste production reached a record 62 million metric tons in 2022 and forecasted an increase of 32% to 82 million metric tons by 2030.
