“I was trained in Collaborative Divorce and quickly learned its benefits,” said Howell. “Collaborative Divorce is more respectful, it is peaceful, and it is overall the right way to go. The odds are all in favor of Collaborative Divorce.”

Divorce With Respect Week® is March 3-9, 2025, and is a nationwide effort to educate divorcing couples about no-court options for divorce like the Collaborative Divorce process. Collaborative Divorce guides couples in working together to divorce to resolve the issues in their divorce case.

“Part of my job as a divorce coach is increasing understanding and decreasing escalation,” said Lenon. “Once I saw how my role could be used from the very beginning to prevent problems and lower conflict then I knew that I was where I wanted to be, working with Collaborative Divorce cases.”

CPCAL is a statewide organization of Collaborative Divorce practice groups. Members include lawyers, mental health professionals, financial specialists and other professionals. Learn more about CPCAL at <https://cpcal.com/>.
