QuEra was founded by globally recognized academics and scientists from Harvard and MIT. The company also operates the world's largest publicly accessible quantum computer. Led by Google, the investment round also included new prominent investors such as SoftBank Vision Fund 2 and Valor Equity Partners, alongside Sabancı Ventures.

Commenting on the investment, Sabancı Holding's Group President of Strategy and Business Development, Gökhan Eyigün, stated:

"As part of our vision to create a Sabancı Group that quickly adapts to the evolving global economy, continuously renews itself, grows, and strengthens, one of our key strategies is to invest in the companies of the future and support our 'new economy'-focused growth strategy. Through Sabancı Ventures, which we established in 2020 as Sabancı Holding's Corporate Venture Capital Fund, we make minority investments in companies that have reached a certain stage within our strategic focus areas. Our goal is to contribute to the growth of these startups while also ensuring our existing companies gain access to future disruptive technologies. Our investment in Quera is a strong reflection of this vision. With this investment, we have now increased the number of companies in our Sabancı Ventures portfolio to 15. Moving forward, we will continue to evaluate investment opportunities aligned with our strategy that contribute to our Group Purpose and vision.
