-- Every fall, the world transforms into a breathtaking canvas of vibrant reds, yellows, and oranges. But why exactly do leaves change colors? Author Sharon McCann offers a whimsical and heartwarming answer in her latest book, "A Tale of Why the Leaves Turn Color in Fall."

The story follows two brothers, Jason and Eric, as they visit their grandmother's cozy countryside home—a place brimming with warm cookies, cherished traditions, and fascinating tales from the locals that were passed down through generations. As the boys marvel at the fiery hues of autumn and watch squirrels prepare for winter, Jason's curiosity has sparked an intriguing question: Why do leaves change color in the fall? In response, their grandmother replies with a captivating narrative; one that unfolds into a tale rich with cultural folklore and wonder, sparking imaginations and celebrating the magic of nature.

Drawing on her extensive experience in the entertainment industry, Sharon McCann infuses this enchanting story with cinematic flair. Her background includes roles in films like Pirates of the Caribbean and American Sweethearts, as well as appearances in the television series Veronica Mars and The History Channel's Civil War. McCann masterfully combines her storytelling prowess with a deep love of folklore to craft a narrative that enthralls readers of all ages.
