significant factors, such as increasing awareness of eye health, increasing healthcare spending, widespread adoption of telemedicine for eye care, expanding healthcare infrastructure, and an increase in government healthcare initiatives.

In the coming years, the glaucoma market size is anticipated to witness continued robust growth. By the year 2029, it is predicted to reach $10.20 billion, with a compound annual growth rate CAGR of 5.5%. This growth can be linked to various factors, including an aging population, rising prevalence of glaucoma, a growing demand for minimally invasive surgeries, and a surge in the prevalence of diabetes and hypertension.

What Drives The Glaucoma Market Growth?

One cannot overlook the increasing prevalence of chronic eye conditions, which are expected to propel the growth of the glaucoma market going forward. Chronic eye conditions, rising due to aging populations, increased screen time, lifestyle factors, and a higher prevalence of conditions like diabetes and hypertension, often result in persistent vision impairment or discomfort and require ongoing management or treatment. To mitigate the risk of further optic nerve damage, intraocular pressure needs to be lowered with glaucoma treatment to preserve vision, as untreated glaucoma can lead to irreversible blindness.

For instance, take into account data from December 2024. According to the National Health Service NHS, a UK-based publicly funded healthcare system, over 2 million people in the UK were living with sight loss in 2024. Moreover, the number of people living with sight loss is projected to increase by 27%, reaching approximately 2.8 million by 2035. Clearly, the rising prevalence of chronic eye conditions is driving the glaucoma market.
