NEEDHAM, MA, UNITED STATES, February 25, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- OpenClinica today invited European clinical data management professionals to join company leaders at ACDM25, March 2nd to March 4th in Prague. The conference features expert speakers, specialist panels, and engaging debates, and OpenClinica leaders discussing and demoing

OpenClinica Unite, the company's EHR to EDC solution, and OpenClinica Recruit, the company's newest tool that simplifies and streamlines the patient recruitment process in clinical trials.

OpenClinica's strong partnership network includes sponsors, CROs, hospitals, industry consortia, and academic institutions. Clients appreciate their robust support services and tailored pricing.”

Nisarg Shah, Everest Group's Practice Director

The company also will highlight its 2024 successes, including:

OpenClinica's EDC was named a top contender by the Everest Group, a leading global research and consulting firm. The Everest Group's Practice Director, Nisarg Shah, said:

“OpenClinica offers a user-friendly EDC software that requires minimal programming knowledge, featuring single-click publish for mid-study changes, user management, data validation, and query management. OpenClinica's strong partnership network includes CROs, hospital networks, industry consortia, and academic institutions, with clients appreciating its efficient support services and pricing tailored for their needs.”

OpenClinica differentiates itself from other EDCs with its vision and capability, earning high marks in technology capability, flexibility and ease of deployment, engagement and commercial model, and customer support.

OpenClinica acquired BuildClinical to accelerate patient recruitment and solve the most common source of delays in clinical research. BuildClinical, now called OpenClinica Recruit, was a health technology company that helps researchers and patients find each other faster by using advanced data-driven strategies to engage and enroll the ideal clinical trial population needed for a given study. Since its founding in 2020, BuildClinical has successfully enrolled more than 50,000 participants in clinical research studies, while simultaneously accelerating enrollment timelines and reducing participant engagement costs.
