The prestigious Award of Excellence for Innovation in RPA presented at the 15th Aegis Graham Bell Awards, honoring Datamatics Business Solutions' groundbreaking cloud-based Robotic Data Science solution.

The Aegis Graham Bell Awards, supported by the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology, Department of Science and Technology, and Ministry of Education under the Government of India, celebrate innovation excellence across the technology landscape.

Datamatics' award-winning RDS solution reimagines traditional RPA by creating a cloud-native ecosystem where AI-powered bots and human expertise work in harmony. Built on an open-source framework, this innovative solution transforms the labor-intensive process of B2B data validation from months-long manual effort to an automated few-day miracle.

"This recognition from the Aegis Graham Bell Awards validates our strategic vision of fusing cutting-edge technology with human expertise to solve complex business challenges," said Nishant Kanodia, Chairman of Datamatics Business Solutions. "It is a testament to our focus on resolving complex customer problems and delivering value to our client's business growth. Our data solution demonstrates how innovation can translate directly into a competitive advantage for our clients."

Datamatics Business Solutions continues to advance its data capabilities, focusing on further enhancing the platform's AI capabilities and expanding its application across additional business processes to help more organizations transform their data operations.
