Joe Lieberman dedicated more than 40 years of his life to public service, tirelessly advocating for bipartisanship, civility, and meaningful dialogue. He broke barriers as the first Jewish candidate for Vice President during the 2000 election and, throughout his career, earned a reputation for reaching across the aisle to find solutions that prioritized the common good, no matter the repercussions to his political fortunes.

With the first anniversary of his passing approaching, "Centered" becomes a more profound

Joe Lieberman was a leader who acted with integrity, even in the face of criticism. His bipartisan efforts and commitment to meaningful change made him a trusted figure during some of the most challenging times in American history. Having served as Chairman of the Senate Homeland Security Committee, Lieberman played a critical role forging solutions that served all Americans, not just his party, a recurring theme in "Centered."

From his environmental advocacy, to lead sponsor of the repeal of "Don't Ask, Don't Tell," to the historic 2000 presidential campaign, Lieberman's work left a legacy that continues to inspire. The film doesn't just highlight these accomplishments—it takes audiences behind-the-scenes, providing an intimate look at how Lieberman's principles guided him.
