"This honor is not just for us—it belongs to every business owner, board member, and community partner who works tirelessly to make Potter and Tioga Counties a must-visit destination," said Colleen Hanson, Executive Director of Visit Potter-Tioga PA. "We are proud to showcase our region's natural beauty, small-town charm, and incredible local businesses. Year after year, our team remains committed to making sure the rest of the world knows there's no better place to explore."

Pennsylvania Business Central's Top 100 Organizations recognizes businesses and organizations that make a significant impact on their communities. Honorees are nominated by executives, community leaders, chambers of commerce, and readers of the publication. The publication will put out a special edition announcing the list, reaching more than 40,000 readers across 23 counties, and celebrating the organizations that go above and beyond for their region.

Since 2017, Visit Potter-Tioga has played a vital role in growing tourism and strengthening the local economy. The organization helps visitors discover the natural wonders and small-town charm that make the region unique through partnerships with local businesses, community-driven initiatives, and year-round event promotions. From the breathtaking Pennsylvania Grand Canyon and scenic Pine Creek Rail Trail to the world-renowned International Dark Sky Park at Cherry Springs State Park, there's no shortage of outdoor adventure. And after exploring the great outdoors, visitors can enjoy the charming shops, cozy diners, and welcoming communities that make Potter and Tioga Counties unforgettable.
