Massacci “A Collection OF Truths & Hypocrisies
Voodoo Brewing Co-Fort Myers

You Will Want to Debate
With Me, Or Yourself When
You View My Works”

Massacci

This isn't just an exhibition—it's an intellectual gauntlet. Massacci's work forces attendees to confront their own biases, contradictions, and beliefs, making them active participants in an ongoing conversation about morality, hypocrisy, and the illusions we construct around our convictions.

A Debate in Every Brushstroke
Renowned for his unfiltered, thought-provoking approach,

Massacci does not create for comfort—he creates for confrontation. His art dissects social constructs, dismantles assumptions, and dares viewers to engage with uncomfortable truths.

“You’ll want to debate with me or yourself when you view my works,” says Massacci. “I don’t just want people to look at my art—I want them to argue with it. The best response is discomfort, because discomfort leads to questioning, and questioning leads to understanding.”

Through raw visual metaphors, conceptual installations, and piercing social commentary, Massacci compels audiences to reflect on the duality of truth and hypocrisy in a world where ideologies collide.

A Challenge for the Mind

This is not an exhibition for the faint-hearted. It is an arena where art collides with ideology, where right and wrong blur, and where truth becomes subjective. Attendees should arrive prepared to question not only the artwork—but also themselves.

Are you ready to confront the hypocrisies that shape your worldview? To challenge what you believe to be true? To engage in a conversation that refuses to be ignored?

Join Massacci for A Collection of Truths and Hypocrisies at Voodoo Brewing Co. on March 7, 2025.
