

GFA Unveils Engine Leasing Service: A Flexible, Cost-Effective Solution for Aviation

GFA, a global leader in aviation parts and repair, has introduced its engine leasing service to help operators reduce costs and minimize downtime.

DUBAI, UNITED ARAB EMIRATES, March 4, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- GFA, a global leader in aviation parts supply and repair services, has announced the launch of its entry into engine leasing service. Designed with the needs of modern aviation operators in mind, this new service is set to help customers keep their fleets flying with minimal downtime and reduced costs.

At a time when maintaining operational efficiency is more important than ever, GFA's engine leasing service allows operators to bypass the huge capital investments normally required for engine ownership. Clients will benefit from immediate access to high-quality engines, which means faster turnaround times and fewer aircraft-on-ground (AOG) situations.

The flexible leasing options are tailored to suit both short- and long-term operational needs, making certain that every customer finds the perfect fit based on their requirements. Moreover, this service is fully supported by GFA's extensive expertise in aviation maintenance and repair, providing clients with reliable support throughout the lease period.

"Launching our engine leasing service is a major milestone for GFA," said Asif Aziz, Director of International Sales at GFA. "Through our service, we not only hope to cut costs for businesses but also keep operations running smoothly. We are excited about the positive feedback we have received and look forward to finding solutions that will further benefit our clients and the industry."

With over 15 years of experience and a reputation for quality and reliability, GFA continues to set new standards in the aviation sector by offering innovative solutions that address the everyday challenges faced by airlines and repair stations.
