Travel the Pass, founded in 1991 by Sylvia and well-known historian Leon Metz, has played a crucial role in preserving and sharing the stories of the Borderland. Through educational initiatives, publications, and media projects, the organization has worked to bring awareness to the area's historical significance.

“Travel the Pass has been instrumental in ensuring the history of our region is not forgotten,” said Michael J. Gopin. “From launching the first binational education TV channel to producing publications like Cowboys and Cosmos, their dedication to preserving and sharing the past is inspiring.”

During the visit to the Magoffin Home, a landmark that reflects El Paso's deep historical roots, Sylvia shared how Travel the Pass has highlighted historic sites throughout the Tri-State region and collaborated on various projects to promote local heritage.
