What Factors Are Driving the Demand for Epoetin Alfa?

Epoetin Alfa is widely utilized to manage anemia associated with chronic diseases, as it:

- Stimulates red blood cell production, ensuring better oxygen circulation.
- Reduces fatigue, significantly improving patient well-being.
- Enhances overall quality of life, particularly for those with long-term health conditions.

The increasing prevalence of chronic diseases, attributed to poor diets, sedentary lifestyles, and an aging demographic, has significantly driven the demand for Epoetin Alfa.

For instance, the National Association of Chronic Disease Directors (NACDD) reported in April 2022 that:

- 60% of American adults are affected by at least one chronic disease.
- 40% suffer from multiple chronic conditions (MCC), adding strain to healthcare systems.
- The economic burden of chronic diseases in the U.S. stands at $2 trillion annually, averaging $8,600 per person, with further increases projected by 2030.
