Powered by Kickstarter, Now Produced by YOU!

WEST PALM BEACH, FL, UNITED STATES, March 7, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The critically acclaimed TV documentary series Addiction Unplugged is back—and this time, the audience is the producer.

Addiction Unplugged is more than a TV series—it is a platform for change. These inspiring comeback stories give people hope, help families heal, and show that recovery is possible.”

After reaching 2.1 million viewers on A&E in Season One, Season Two is ready to change lives again—but only with public support.

A Movement, Not Just a Show

Addiction Unplugged goes beyond headlines to share raw, emotional, and inspiring comeback stories. The series humanizes addiction, shatters stigma, and proves that recovery is real. These are stories of resilience, second chances, and hope—stories that must be told.

The Urgency: America’s Overdose and Fentanyl Crisis Is Still Rising

Over 100,000 people die from drug overdoses every year in the U.S., with fentanyl poisoning now the leading cause of death for Americans aged 18-45. Millions are struggling, and yet, addiction remains deeply stigmatized.

“Creating Addiction Unplugged has always been about more than just storytelling—it’s about making a real social impact, breaking stigma, and giving a voice to those struggling or in recovery.” said Director Brandon Dumlao.
