

Unsolicited Press Announces the Release of KINDS OF COOL: An Interactive Jazz Poetry Anthology

An immersive jazz-inspired poetry collection blending verse, music, and art in a dynamic, interactive reading experience.

PORTLAND, OR, UNITED STATES, March 8, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Unsolicited Press is cranking up the volume with KINDS OF COOL: An Interactive Jazz Poetry Anthology, hitting shelves on January 2, 2025.

Edited by Joe Maita and Summer

Stewart, with a foreword by jazz legend David Amram, this collection doesn't just capture the spirit of jazz—it swings, scats, and solos right off the page. And here's the best part: it's an ongoing jam session, dropping twice a year to keep the rhythm alive.

THE INTERSECTION OF POETRY, MUSIC, AND VISUAL ART

This isn't your grandma's poetry book. KINDS OF COOL is a 164-page jazz-infused odyssey, where the freewheeling energy of poetry meets the expressive brushstrokes of celebrated artist Marsha Hammel. Her bold, movement-packed paintings don't just complement the words—they riff off them, creating a multi-sensory experience that embodies the improvisational magic of jazz.

INTERACTIVE & IMMERSIVE – SCAN, LISTEN, FEEL THE GROOVE

What makes KINDS OF COOL truly stand out? QR codes throughout the book transport readers directly to poetry readings and jazz performances, making it easy to listen along while you read. Whether it's a poet's voice syncing up with the cadence of a sax solo or a bassist's deep groove underscoring a stanza, this anthology is built for full-on engagement.
