To have the film premiere in IMAX, in my hometown, is a dream come true. I believe this film is best experienced on the largest screen possible and I'm excited to share it with the community.”

Tony Savo

Savo, has been officially selected for the 2025 SacTown Movie Buffs Film Festival, and will premiere exclusively in IMAX at the Esquire IMAX Theatre in downtown Sacramento. This groundbreaking film, which explores profound questions about technology and human consciousness, is set to captivate audiences April 25th-27th.

"Shape of Things to Come" delves into a near-future world where the lines between artificial intelligence and human experience blur, prompting viewers to contemplate the very essence of existence. With stunning visuals and a thought-provoking narrative, Savo's film promises an immersive cinematic experience unlike any other.

"I'm incredibly honored to have 'Shape of Things to Come' selected for the SacTown Movie Buffs Film Festival," said Tony Savo, director of the film. "To have the film premiere in IMAX, in my hometown, is a dream come true. I believe this film is best experienced on the largest screen possible, and I am excited to share this vision with the Sacramento community."

The SacTown Movie Buffs Film Festival, known for showcasing innovative and compelling independent films, recognized the unique artistic merit and technical achievement of "Shape of Things to Come." The decision to premiere the film in IMAX underscores its cinematic scope and ambition.

"This animated short combines animation and AI very smoothly. It's well-made and looks and sounds great," said Kierre Stowes, President and Curator of the SacTown Movie Buffs Film Festival. "We feel audiences will be entertained with this one on the big screen at Esquire IMAX."
