MRO Americas

MRO Americas attracts the largest and most influential group in the aviation MRO arena, and we have an impressive speaker line up and a massive exhibition hall.”

According to data that will be presented at the event, the 2025 10-Year North America Commercial Fleet and MRO Forecast, the industry can expect nearly $690 billion new deliveries at retail value, with 80% of new unit deliveries being narrowbodies such as the Airbus A320 and the Boeing 737 worth, +$506 billion. A relatively low regional fleet growth rate in North America belies a huge recapitalization transition in North America with +5,000 new commercial aircraft replacing +4,000 retiring aircraft over the next 10-years.

“The huge turnover of the fleet in North America will create big changes for operators and MROs alike. We see an MRO demand of nearly $300 billion, 46% of which will be engine-driven demand,” said Brian Kough, Aviation Week’s Senior Director for Forecasts and Aerospace Insights. “We anticipate that there will be more than 64,000 scheduled engine and airframe maintenance events over the next decade generated by North American airlines while our neighbors to the south in Latin America will see over 19,600.”

The event includes an exhibition floor with more than 1,000 solution providers and an expected 18,000 registered attendees. These numbers reflect the largest MRO Americas in its 29-year history. The exhibition floor will feature engaging content including sessions, case histories and product briefings covering the hottest topics and industry trends at the Go Live! Theater.

“We are thrilled to return to Atlanta! Last year, MRO Americas was our biggest ever with more than 17,400 registered attendees and we expect to exceed that number this year. MRO Americas attracts the largest and most influential group in the aviation MRO arena, and we have an impressive speaker line up and a massive exhibition hall,” said Helen Curl, Vice President of Events for Aviation Week Network. “The event plays an integral role in our customers’ business operations and is the place to be for making deals, gaining insight, and networking with peers, customers, and prospective customers.”

The exhibition hall hours are Tuesday, April 8, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 9 from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Thursday, April 11 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. See here for a full list of exhibitors. To register for MRO Americas see here:
