Andreassen has been certified in Ethical Influence through Dr. Robert Cialdini, certified DISC Consultant and Trainer, certified with John Maxwell Leadership, and certified through the Center of Executive Coaching (ACSTH) approved by the International Coaching Federation. Her passion is to serve others who have a story within them to know that it is important, their story matters and transform that story into a message of impact on and off the stage.

"In today's rapidly evolving world, the need for leaders who serve selflessly has never been greater," says Andreassen. "This book offers insights from high-achieving thought leaders who have shared their perspectives on how to embrace service leadership, cultivating positive work teams and enriching community cultures that lead to great success. Their personal experiences on who have been their mentors which have helped them become servant leaders is truly inspiring."

"Serving From The Heart: Faith Driven Stories and Transformative Strategies for Servant Leadership and Lasting Impact" provides readers with practical strategies to implement servant leadership principles in personal and professional realms. At the end of each chapter, there are questions for the reader which allows them to jot down their own notes. To request more information on our authors featured in this book visit CPLI.com
