

Carolina Plastic Surgery & Medical Spa in Spartanburg Launches New Website to Enhance Patient Education

The board-certified plastic surgeons at Carolina Plastic Surgery unveil a new website featuring thorough details on a variety of cosmetic enhancement options.

SPARTANBURG, SC, UNITED STATES, March 12, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dr. Ashley Kerekes and Dr. John T. Lettieri, board-certified plastic surgeons in Spartanburg and the Greenville, SC area, are announcing the launch of a brand-new website for their practice, Carolina Plastic Surgery & Medical Spa. The new site offers an upgraded digital experience, providing visitors with an intuitive and informative platform to explore a full range of plastic surgery and non-surgical aesthetic treatments.

Designed with a modern, user-friendly interface, the website focuses on delivering a virtually seamless browsing experience for current and prospective patients. Visitors can easily access detailed information about procedures such as breast augmentation, liposuction, tummy tuck, facelift surgery, and non-surgical cosmetic enhancements, as well as patient resources, reviews of the plastic surgeons, detailed biographies, and a gallery of before-and-after photos showcasing real patient results. The innovative multi-doctor photo gallery also provides viewers with the ability to filter the results by each provider and procedure.

The new website's responsive plastic surgery website design ensures optimal viewing on desktops, tablets, and mobile devices, making it easy for visitors to navigate from just about any type of digital platform. The doctors wanted the website to blend images of the Spartanburg area with a warm and elegant color scheme to provide an inviting and pleasant experience for viewers as they scroll through the site and peruse comprehensive descriptions of many popular procedures. Additionally, prospective patients can schedule consultations directly through the site and connect with the practice via social media channels for the latest updates.

Developed in collaboration with Rosemont Media, a website design firm based in San Diego, the doctors say their ultimate goal with the new site is to provide a thorough resource that empowers patients with the information they need to make confident decisions about their aesthetic journey. In addition, they wanted to create a digital space that reflects the practice's commitment to excellence, safety, and personalized care. The doctors note that the launch of this new website underscores the practice's ongoing mission to provide accessible, high-quality aesthetic services while prioritizing patient education and satisfaction.
