precision and an unyielding commitment to advancing surgical practice. Dr. Gough's utilization of robotic-assisted techniques in hip and knee replacement, particularly through muscle-sparing methods and the innovative Direct Superior Approach, is not mere spectacle; it's a demonstration of how technology can enhance recovery by minimizing trauma and expediting the return to mobility.

Gina Grad, a trusted storyteller with a diverse background in radio, television, and podcasting, returns as host. Known for her incisive contributions on The Adam Carolla Show, she brings a unique blend of clarity and gravitas that guides viewers through the technical nuances and practical benefits of these medical advancements. In addition to her broadcasting career, Grad is the author of My Extra Mom, a children's book designed to help kids understand and cope with the dynamics of a blended family, further highlighting her talent for making complex ideas accessible.

In this episode, viewers are taken behind the scenes at Gough Surgical, PLLC, where the confluence of cutting-edge robotics and patient-centered care is transforming traditional surgical paradigms. The narrative goes beyond the operating room, spotlighting a team that is not only breaking new ground in procedural efficiency but also actively engaged in the global education of surgeons. As a board-certified member of the American Board of Orthopedic Surgeons and a proactive participant in the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, Dr. Gough's influence extends internationally—propelling forward the standard of orthopedic care.

New Frontiers offers a rare, in-depth look at a sector where innovation is not an abstract ideal but a tangible force improving lives. With its balanced blend of technical detail and human interest, the program invites the discerning viewer to appreciate both the science and the art behind modern joint replacement surgeries.

The New Frontiers episodes are currently scheduled to air on national networks. Additionally, the series will be accessible on-demand through platforms such as Amazon, Vimeo, YouTube, Roku, Tumblr, X, Brighteon, Facebook, Rumble, Dailymotion, <https://ReportWire.org>, Newsbreak, and more.
