

Pipe17 Partners with Aries Solutions for Order Operations Success

Top Agency in Composable Commerce Selects Pipe17 for Order Operations Vision and Robust Partner Network

SEATTLE, WA, UNITED STATES, March 13, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Pipe17, a leading provider of AI-powered composable Order Operations solutions to brands, retailers, 3PLs, and wholesalers, today announced a strategic partnership with Aries Solutions, a leading provider of composable commerce and MACH solutions for high-growth brands of all sizes.

"In our mission to help brands and retailers modernize their commerce infrastructure, we recognize the growing need for better ways to deal with order orchestration between selling and fulfillment channels and back office applications," said Brendan Gualdoni, Head of Growth at Aries Solutions, "Pipe17's approach, focused on order operations and backed by a tech-enabled partner network, is achieving real results for brands and can often be implemented much faster than alternative approaches. As the premier agency for composable commerce solutions, we are excited to be partnering with Pipe17 to deliver fully automated, end-to-end order operations for our clients."

Aries Solutions is a global solution implementer specializing in composable commerce and headless technologies. They are North America's leading implementer of commercetools and composable commerce solutions. With the experience of over 40 successful commercetools implementations, Aries Solutions has a proven track record of helping businesses scale, adapt, and own their digital commerce future.

Pipe17 is revolutionizing commerce operations at a critical moment for businesses. Consumers are shopping across an increasingly fragmented ecosystem of channels—from TikTok and Instagram to Amazon—with higher expectations for consistency and delivery. That means businesses must contend with synchronizing order, pricing, and inventory data in real-time, across multiple systems—from ERPs and 3PLs to commerce platforms, marketplaces, and stores. At the same time, companies are facing mounting pressure to maximize efficiency and profitability – all while meeting customer delivery expectations – making the stakes higher than ever in the commerce landscape.

Pipe17's innovative approach to Order Operations provides customers with MACH-compliant composable connectivity, order orchestration, end-to-end visibility and more, all powered by a tech-enabled network that provides seamless interoperability and rapid connection setup with more than 300 selling, fulfillment and back office partners, including industry leaders like commercetools, Amazon, NetSuite, Ryder Logistics, Radial and many others.

Pipe17 features an AI Order Operations Agent, Pippen. An industry first, Pippen is trained on Pipe17's deep understanding of Order Operations and assists users with order routing, administration, exception handling, and more.

By working with Pipe17, businesses can leverage their core capabilities and AI innovations like Pippen to sell across channels with precision, greater agility, and reduced operating costs, all while delivering exceptional customer experiences in today's dynamic market.

"We are thrilled to be partnering with Aries to support the composable community and beyond," Tim Morse, Pipe17 SVP of Partnerships and Business Development, said, "Their reputation as a solution provider stands out in the composable community and we share a common vision that sellers need simpler, more effective solutions to their order management headaches. We look forward to working closely together to make that happen."
