In 1979, founder Mari Lou embarked on a shining entrepreneurial journey, laying the foundation for a distinguished fine jewelry enterprise. Her venture blossomed into a family business when her daughter Diana and son, Donald, joined her in the early 1990's in Lakeview Plaza. Diana became the second-generation owner of the business in 2015 when they designed and built a new store at Orland Park Crossing.

Over the years, Mari Lou's has become known for exceeding customers expectations in service, diamond and gemstone jewelry selections, and custom design. Creating lasting memories for generations of Orland Park-area families.

"It has been an incredible honor to serve our clients from special events to meaningful milestones, we will always be deeply grateful for the relationships we've built along the way and for the trust our clients have placed in us over the years," said Diana. She remains optimistic about this new chapter and would like to assure Mari Lou's valued clients that their team is exploring new opportunities to continue to serve them in innovative and meaningful ways.
